

DEAR NEIGHBOR.

I want to wish you a happy New Year. The market is strong even at the beginning of January. It is so strong in fact that I had approx. 100 people come through my open house on Sunday; it was busy to say the least.

While this is an exciting time, there's a lot of money on the line. For most of us, our homes are the largest asset we'll ever own—so you are right to want to understand this asset if you're considering selling.

Here are the top things you need to know:

The market remains strong in the last months

Last month we saw the typical December numbers go up and down in critical areas showing us the market has maintained stability. Last month, Castro Valley averaged just 0.2 months of available homes. This means that without new listings, all available homes would sell in one week! This has causes homes to sell fast and still with multiple offers when marketed correctly. The median sale price has decreased after last months increase to $1,325,000 in November to $1,210,000 for December. Homeowners may be ready to maximize their equity. However, even in a market like ours, it takes careful preparation and a proven strategy to capitalize on current trends.

We continue to see homes sell with multiple offers. Correctly priced, well-marketed homes are selling at or above list price, in few days on market.

In fact, homes typically sold in just 14 days in December. The speed is a result of a consistently strong demand for homes in our area. Competition among buyers is also having positive effects on the sale-to-list price ratio, which continues to be strong at 112.23% in December. This number has increased again now three months in a row. These stats really add up when you are selling your largest financial asset. Based on these numbers, we can see that well-prepared homeowners are routinely still getting tens of thousands over the asking price!

Buyers are searching now; competition has eased some however still remains strong.

In working with buyers in the market place many are disappointed as when you have 2-4 other buyers wanting one property there are disappointed buyers as you would imagine. Demand in the market has eased a little as we were seeing more offers and this maybe seasonal however now would be a good time for buyers to buy a property and this is actually a great time to list your home. Currently low interest rates are still bringing buyers into the market, and current inventory is still low. I will keep an eye on rates as inflation tends to push them up which would affect the market.

But what does this all mean for you?

LOOKING AHEAD

Here's what we are keeping an eye on in the coming months:

HOME VALUES ARE ON THE RISE AGAIN

Demand for Castro Valley homes remains strong. With our excellent school system, downtown improvements, parks, trails, the BART transit system, and our strong sense of community, buyers continue hunting for homes in our area. As a homeowner, strategic marketing and positioning are the best ways to maximize your equity when it's time for a change.

INVENTORY REMAINS LOW

There are only so many properties available in Castro Valley in the first place and, while there are more homes listed than one year ago, inventory is still low. A low number of homes on the market combined with a strong pool of buyers means healthy competition. The market has eased some and is a good time for buyers who missed out through the year. Homes that are priced correctly and marketed strategically often sell quickly, with multiple offers.
